

HONOR FOR 2
LEGISLATORSCitizens Give Luncheon to Dudley and Thomason
Saturday at Sheldon.

A dinner to honor representatives R. M. Dudley and R. E. Thomason, who have been in the forefront of the fight at Austin for the Texas university, will be given Saturday at noon at Hotel Sheldon.

21 Peace two representatives in the lower house returned home Friday and will be here over Saturday. Dudley and Thomason will be guests at the dinner and will be joined by officers of the chamber of commerce, the Rotary club and the Kiwanis club.

The dinner is to be open to men and women and Mrs. Dudley and Mrs. Thomason will be guests. It is expected that 200 people, at least, will attend. The dinner is to be in the main dining room.

Rotarians, Kiwanians and chamber of commerce members are to be entertained. Others who wish to attend can make reservations by telephone. Hotel Sheldon, before 10 o'clock Saturday.

Gypsies Are in Town.
Children; Big Chief
Agrees to Leave Today

The gypsies are in town, but will leave before sundown. They hit the woods near Washington park Thursday afternoon and in a few hours the constable's office was in receipt of a complaint that one of the women had stolen a pocketbook.

The whole crowd of women, seven of them, each with two or three babies clinging to her skirts, were hauled into court Friday morning, headed by their chief, Juan Acosta, who readily paid a $1250 fine to Justice J. M. Weaver when told he would be let off with one penalty for the crowd, provided he left town at once. He vowed to cut off his own head if he did not get extracted from his pocket a thick roll of money when paying his fine.

There are seven women in the camp and 60 children. They came by train from Indianapolis, Ind., where they had a bad summer and had to sell their pretty wares. They intend to winter on the border and go north in the spring with another full complement of wares and horses, besides a few more children, the women said.

Do You Lead Or Follow?

Going Counter to Popular Opinion Isn't a Pleasant Parag.

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX.
"I'm bored to death! But everybody's reading this book, and I feel as if I really ought to," said Cynthia.

"Not a bit," said her mother. "Not particularly. It's just a novel, but everybody says it's terribly thrilling, and all the people I know are talking about it. So I thought I'd better read it, but I'll be mighty glad when I come to 'Tina'."

"I don't see much in it," remarked Seward, grimly. "All the boys at my club are taking it up, though, so I'm cutting out tennis and riding and I'm chasing the little white pill around the green, but I don't see any sport in it and I'll be darned glad when some of the bunch go back to the courts again."

"I wonder how much good the exercise is doing you?" asked Cynthia scornfully. "How can a man play a game he doesn't like?"

"How can a girl read a book she doesn't enjoy—unless I suppose she's a Green's History of the English People or Nietzsche?" I asked.

"First Cynthia gasped, then she picked up the offending book to throw at me and then she joined in Seward's laughter.

"There are a pair of them for you things they do not enjoy and doing them for no other reason than the shining sun than that silly synopsis one—'everybody's doing it.' I have always had a nervous little notion that 'everybody's doing it' was a perfectly good reason for not doing things."

When you are floating along with the tide you are part of the movement. If you get far ahead, you stand out admirably because of the qualities of your seamanship. If you fall far behind, you show up—less admirably—because of your weakness.

But the man who really amounts to something has a tendency to lead even though it be in the wrong direction.

Going counter to popular opinion isn't a popular pursuit. Most of us are under the thrall of the popular. Unfortunately, the crowd by whom the new is tried.

Not yet the last to lay the old aside? Why not? I'd like to know if the influence of that philosophy had governed Christopher Columbus's life, he wouldn't have dared try for the new passage to India. Pallas the Potter would have given up his search for a glaze. Challe would not have thought about the solar system. And if being the last to lay the old aside, we really were dreadful, we might kill off our horses because we have automobiles or stop writing real poetry because we have discovered vers libre.

The point is to express your individuality, so that it does you and everybody else the most good. You can't do that by depending too much on what other people are doing or by ignoring the fact that they have to be slightly independent on what you are doing.

New Thoughts Are Needed.
If you have a new thought which differs from popular opinion, don't let it investigate—why not study it carefully. It may have the germ of a great progress in it. It may contain the beginning of the new of information of which the world is in search.

The matter with most of us is that we are frightened to death to say, "I don't know." No one worth while despises any one else for acknowledging that he happens to be uninformed on a certain subject. In fact, to confess "I don't know" carries with it the idea that you dare confess because there are other things about which you do know a great deal.

If you are strong enough to lead a suffrage movement intelligently, no one is going to despise you for acknowledging that you don't understand the navigation of a boat. You're only a bore when you pretend that you do and stupidly block the way of discussion by your pretense of having information on a subject where you can't contribute one real idea.

Don't torture yourself by trying to learn to trot when you really hate to dance. If you are going to be heavy and awkward and hard to drag about, how can you expect any one to enjoy your performance? But if you talk well the man who gets a chance to sit and rest at your side may find you an actual oasis in a desert.

Don't be stubborn in your refusal to learn new things—but do be selective enough to pick out the things you want to know, the things you like to do—and to stand for something worth while in the field. You enjoy rather than to trail in as an "also ran" in a field where you are outclassed.

Not every broad jumper can run five miles, and not every hundred yard sprinter can vault the pole. Be a specialist and learn to admire the other chap's performance enough to cry, "Say, old chap, that's great stuff. I like to know about it. Tell me how you do it."

Mrs. A. N. Schweitzer, of Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Bette B. Mendenhall, of Birmingham, Ala., are the first two women in the United States to volunteer as war correspondents. They will write letters to the lonely American boys who are now in France fighting side by side with the allied troops.

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, nee Benson McCoy, widow of the famous war correspondent and novelist, will return to the stage this autumn.

RAYMOND TEAL COMPANY PRESENTS CLEVER SATIRE

"The Suffragettes" presented at the Crawford Theatre last night, was well received by a large audience, and while as the name implies, it is a women play, the male element is by no means lacking. Fritz Fields presumes another of his "Jasbo" characters, this time posing as Baron Hassenpfeffer, the discoverer of a scientific method for causing the one taking it to immediately fall desperately in love.

Frank Jaquet, as the French hotel keeper, was very good, as were also Roy Kinslow as the bellboy, Gertrude Harris as "Jack Diamond" in love with Daisy Lovelace, incidentally president of the "Women's Rights League," and Homer Long as "Con Ficker."

Jessie May Walsh played the part of the baroness in search of a lost husband. Harry Lake and Pomeroy de Cour proved beyond the question of a doubt that they could take care of themselves until after each partakes of the fatal elixir, then the first thing they look for is a man.

Madeline Lee, although having no part in the play, sang a number of beautiful songs, and later on, in the musical bit of the evening and received at least five well deserved ovations.

Some of the ducklings, Misses Barker, Le Roy, Martin and Snyder, also came in for a share of generous applause accorded an artistic of which Roy Kinslow, Gertrude Harris, Frank Jaquet and Homer Long were the male members. This proved to be the musical bit of the evening and received at least five well deserved ovations.

"The Suffragettes" will be followed on Sunday by "A Battle Scattered Here," a military burlesque.

Austrian Budget Shows Deficit.

ALHAMBRA—MARGUERITE CLARK.
Marguerite Clark, the tiny Paramount star, who is so generally known and loved by El Pasoans, will be seen at the Alhambra today only, in a definite picture, "Still Waters," another Paramount picture and one of Miss Clark's most delightful pictures.

The plot of the story is clean, thrilling and moves along with a rapidity that is a rarity in pictures. This is one of the best of the Woman's Home Companion and approved by that magazine as a story of wholesome interest with no undercurrent of a questionable nature. "Still Waters" will be shown today only at the Alhambra. The prices are 10c, 15c and 25c. The Alhambra is delightfully cool.

OPENS NEW ORE
IN TWO MINES

Mogollon, N. M., Aug. 31.—The Oakes company has opened up new ore in both the Deep Down and Mount 8 mines during the week. Ore shipments have been doubled.

Production for August will amount to nearly 12,000 tons for the district. Mines and mills are working to capacity. The steady advance in the silver market, together with the recent favorable development in the lower levels have added to the operating conditions in the Mogollon.

The improved conditions of the road between Mogollon and Silver City has resulted in a large increase in the number of trucks.

MOTHER SAID
TRY IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Copner after Doctor's Failed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed.
